Basic Intact Care

- Wipe the outside of the penis from base to tip during diaper changes.
- Never push a child's foreskin back to "clean" under it. This is called forced retraction.
- The foreskin is fused to the head of the penis, sometimes until puberty.
- The only person who should EVER retract the boy's foreskin is the boy himself.
- Forced retraction can be very painful and can cause scarring, bleeding, infection, and other complications.
- Many American doctors are not trained in proper care of the natural penis. It is crucial that you make sure your doctor knows not to ever retract your son's foreskin.
